

Will Cox – Artist Statement 2020

No matter where the long road has run, the guitar has always accompanied me. It's both my constant transmitter & diary, through all life's funky towns, cluttered cities, wild islands & cold, cold seas.

My stylistic approach is fluid, since I love so many genres, but the process is always the same: What atmosphere, what feeling, does the music evoke?

Can a story worth the telling, be written to it? If so, the process of coalescence can, or must, begin.

Life can take you away from your ideals, by slow, undetectable degrees, until there comes a day when you realise you are not facing the right horizon anymore. If you don't change course, if you ignore what you do best & just blindly keep going in the wrong direction, then you must accept a fate, a final destination, not worthy of your earlier dreams, your talent, or even your name.

A Darkling Shore is dedicated to the patience & generosity of my family & friends & to anyone who listens to my story.

Sorry it's late... but better late than never.
